PART 1

POLICE REFORM

CHAPTER 9

POLICE APPEALS TRIBUNALS

57 Representation

- (1) Before determining an appeal, a police appeals tribunal must—
 - (a) give both the appellant and the respondent a chance to make representations (whether by way of written submissions or oral hearing), and
 - (b) consider such representations.
- (2) Either party may require that the representations are to be made by way of oral hearing.
- (3) Where an oral hearing is to be held, the parties may elect to be represented (including by a legally qualified person).
