EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Regulations)

These Regulations provide for the detailed accounting requirements that a charity registered in the Scottish charity register must follow. It applies to charities with a financial year which begins on or after 1st April 2006.

Regulation 3 sets out how, for the purpose of these regulations, the first financial year, subsequent financial years and the accounting reference date of a charity is to be determined.

Regulations 4 and 5 require charities to keep accounting records and to submit a statement of account to the Scottish Charity Regulator (“OSCR”) at the end of each financial year.

Regulation 6 requires a charity with subsidiary undertakings to prepare consolidated accounts in addition to each charity’s obligation to prepare a separate statement of account in accordance with either regulation 8 or 9.

Regulation 7 gives connected charities (which share common, parallel or related charitable purposes and administration) the option of preparing accounts collated into a single document to send to OSCR, instead of each having to prepare a separate statement of accounts in accordance with either regulation 8 or 9.

Regulations 8 and 9 require charities to prepare one of two different types of statement of account (fully accrued and receipts and payments accounts), depending on the gross income level of the charity in a financial year. Regulation 8 and schedule 1 and regulation 9 and schedule 3 contain detailed requirements as to the form and content of each type of statement of account.
