Discrimination and harassment on grounds of sexual orientation

3.—(1) For the purposes of these Regulations, a person (“A”) discriminates against another person (“B”) if —

(a) on grounds of sexual orientation, A treats B less favourably than he treats or would treat other persons; or

(b) A applies to B a provision, criterion or practice which he applies or would apply equally to persons not of the same sexual orientation as B; but —

(i) which puts or would put persons of the same sexual orientation as B at a particular disadvantage when compared with other persons;

(ii) which puts B at a disadvantage; and

(iii) which A cannot show to be a proportionate means of achieving a legitimate aim; or

(a) 1998 c.47

(b) SI 1986/594 (N.I. 3)

- (c) A applies to B a requirement or condition which he applies or would apply equally to persons not of the same sexual orientation as B; but —
 - (i) which is such that the proportion of persons of the same sexual orientation as B who can comply with it is considerably smaller than the proportion of persons not of that sexual orientation who can comply with it; and
 - (ii) which he cannot show to be justifiable irrespective of the sexual orientation of the person to whom it is applied; and
 - (iii) which is to the detriment of B because he cannot comply with it.

(2) A comparison of B’s case with that of another person under paragraph (1) must be such that the relevant circumstances in the one case are the same, or not materially different, in the other.

(3) A person (“A”) subjects another person (“B”) to harassment in any circumstances relevant for the purposes of any provision referred to in these Regulations where, on the ground of sexual orientation, A engages in unwanted conduct which has the purpose or effect of —

- (a) violating B’s dignity; or
- (b) creating an intimidating, hostile, degrading, humiliating or offensive environment for B.

(4) Conduct shall be regarded as having the effect specified in sub-paragraphs (a) and (b) or paragraph (1) only if, having regard to all the circumstances, including, in particular, the perception of B, it should reasonably be considered as having that effect.

Discrimination by way of victimisation

4.—(1) For the purposes of these Regulations, a person (“A”) discriminates against another person (“B”) if he treats B less favourably than he treats or would treat other persons in the same circumstances, and does so by reason that B has —

- (a) brought proceedings against A or any other person under these Regulations;
- (b) given evidence or information in connection with proceedings brought by any person against A or any other person; or
- (c) otherwise done anything under or by reference to these Regulations in relation to A or any other person; or
- (d) alleged that A or any other person has committed an act which (whether or not the allegation so states) would amount to a contravention of these Regulations, or by reason that A knows that B intends to do any of those things, or suspects that B has done or intends to do any of them.

(2) Paragraph (1) does not apply to treatment of B by reason of any allegation made by him, or evidence or information given by him, if the allegation, evidence, or information was false and not made (or, as the case may be, given) in good faith.

Goods, facilities or services

5.—(1) It is unlawful for any person concerned with the provision (for payment or not) of goods, facilities or services to the public or a section of the public to discriminate against a person who seeks to obtain or use those goods, facilities or services —

- (a) by refusing or deliberately omitting to provide him with any of them; or
- (b) by refusing or deliberately omitting to provide him with goods, facilities or services of the same quality, in the same manner and on the same terms as are normal in his case in relation to other members of the public or (where the person seeking belongs to a section of the public) to other members of that section.

(2) It is unlawful for any person concerned with the provision of goods, facilities or services as mentioned in paragraph (1), in relation to such provision, to subject to harassment —

Disposal or management of premises

6.—(1) It is unlawful for a person with power to dispose of any premises to discriminate against another —

Relationships which have come to an end

18.—(1) In this regulation a “relevant relationship” is a relationship during the course of which, by virtue of any provision of these Regulations, an act of discrimination or harassment by one party to the relationship (“the relevant party”) against another party to the relationship, on the ground of sexual orientation is unlawful.

where discrimination or harassment arises out of and is closely connected to that relationship.

(4) For the purposes of any proceedings in respect of an unlawful act under paragraph (2) that act shall be treated as falling within the circumstances relevant for the purposes of these Regulations as determine most closely the nature of the relevant relationship.

Discriminatory practice

19.—(1) In this regulation “discriminatory practice” means —

- (a) the application of a provision, criterion or practice which results in an act of discrimination which is unlawful by virtue of any provision of these Regulations taken with regulation 3(1)(b) and regulation 3(2), or which would be likely to result in such an act of discrimination, if the person to whom it is applied included persons of any particular sexual orientation, as which there has been no occasion for applying it; or
- (b) the application of a requirement or condition which results in an act of discrimination which is unlawful by virtue of any provision of these Regulations taken with regulation 3(1)(c) and regulation 3(2), or which would be likely to result in such an act of discrimination if the persons to whom it is applied included persons of any particular sexual orientation as regards which there has been no occasion for applying it.

(2) A person acts in contravention of this regulation if and so long as —

- (a) he applies a discriminatory practice; or
- (b) he operates practices or other arrangements which in any circumstances would call for the application by him of a discriminatory practice.

(3) Proceedings in respect of a contravention of this regulation shall be brought only by the Commission in accordance with regulations 37 to 40.

Discriminatory advertisements

20.—(1) It is unlawful to publish or cause to be published an advertisement which indicates, or might reasonably be understood as indicating, an intention by a person to do an act of discrimination, whether the doing of that act by him would be lawful, or by virtue of these Regulations, unlawful.

(2) Paragraph (1) does not apply to an advertisement if the intended act would be lawful by virtue of regulations 17(5), 26 and 49.

(3) The publisher of an advertisement made unlawful by paragraph (1) shall not be subject to any liability under that paragraph in respect of the publication of the advertisement if he proves —

- (a) that the advertisement was published in reliance on a statement made to him by the person who caused it to be published to the effect that, by reason of the operation of paragraph (2), the publication would not be unlawful; and
- (b) that it was reasonable for him to rely on the statement.

(4) a person who knowingly or recklessly makes a statement such as is mentioned in paragraph (3)(a) which in a material respect is false or misleading shall be guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding level 5 on the standard scale.

Instructions to commit unlawful acts

21. It is unlawful for a person —

- (a) who has authority over another person; or to instruct him to do any act which is unlawful by virtue of any provision contained within regulations 5 to 17 or procure or attempt to procure the doing by him of such an act.

Pressure to commit unlawful acts

22.—(1) It is unlawful to induce, or attempt to induce, a person to any act which contravenes any provision contained within regulations 5 to 17.

(2) An attempted inducement is not prevented from falling with paragraph (1) because it is not made directly to the person in question, if it is made in such a way as he is likely to hear it.

Liability of employers and principals

23.—(1) Anything done by a person in the course of his employment shall be treated for the purposes of these Regulations as done by his employer as well as by him, whether or not it was done with the employer's knowledge or approval.

- (c) a deliberate omission shall be treated as done when the person in question decided upon it.

(7) In the absence of evidence establishing the contrary a person shall be taken for the purposes of this regulation to decide upon an omission —

- (a) when he does an act inconsistent with doing the omitted act; or
- (b) if he has done no such inconsistent act, when the period expires within which he might reasonably have been expected to do the omitted act if it was to be done.

- (b) a certificate signed by or on behalf of the Secretary of State and certifying that an act specified in the certificate was done for the purpose of safeguarding national security or of protecting public safety or public order,

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Regulations)

These Regulations, which are made under section 82 of the Equality Act 2006, make it unlawful to discriminate on the grounds of sexual orientation in the provision of goods, facilities and services, education and public functions.

Sexual orientation is defined in regulation 2 as meaning sexual orientation towards persons of the same sex, persons of the opposite sex, or to both persons of the same sex and of the opposite sex.

Direct discrimination, defined in regulation (3), occurs where a person is treated less favourably than another on grounds of sexual orientation. Indirect discrimination, defined in regulation (3)(1)(b), occurs where a provision, criterion or practice, which is applied generally, puts a person of a particular sexual orientation at a disadvantage and cannot be shown to be a proportionate means of achieving a legitimate aim. Regulation (3)(1)(c) deals with discrimination where a requirement or condition is applied which cannot be justified. Regulation (3)(3) defines harassment, which occurs when a person engages in unwanted conduct which has the purpose of violating the other's dignity or creates an intimidating, hostile, degrading, humiliating or offensive environment. Victimisation, defined in regulation 4, occurs where a person receives less favourable treatment than others by reason of the fact that he has brought (or given evidence in) proceedings, made an allegation or otherwise done anything under or by reference to the Regulations.

Regulations 5 to 17 prohibit discrimination in the provision of goods, facilities, services, premises, education and public functions. In particular they define examples (although not exclusively) of the sorts of facilities and services that might be covered by the Regulations. They deal also with the disposal and management of premises (regulation 6) and the various exceptions that apply to that area (regulations 7 & 8). They also extend the protections to those accessing education and educational facilities (regulation 9) and to those accessing public authorities (regulation 12), subject to certain exceptions (regulations 13, 14 & 15). Regulation 16 provides an exception to organisations relating to religion and belief, where the sole purpose of the unlawful action was to practice a religion or belief, to advance a religion or belief, to teach the principles of a religion or belief, to enable persons of a religion or belief to engage in any activity or receive a benefit within the framework of that religion or belief. It does not however extend the exception to organisations whose sole or main purpose is commercial. The Regulations also extend to associations and private members clubs (regulation 17).

Regulations 19 to 25 deal with other unlawful acts, including discriminatory advertising (regulation 20), instructing others to commit unlawful acts (regulation 21) or pressuring others to commit unlawful acts (regulation 22). Regulation 23 deals with liability of employers and principals and makes acts committed by an employee treated as if they had been done by his employer as well by as him. Regulation 24 makes it an offence to aid an act made unlawful by virtue of these Regulations and regulation 25 makes a contract, or terms of a contract, void if they include an act made unlawful by these Regulations.

Regulation 26 deals with charities and provides an exception for them from any provision contained within regulations 5 to 17 in so far as the charity was established to confer a benefit on a particular group by virtue of sexual orientation.

Regulations 27 to 34 deal with the role of the Equality Commission for Northern Ireland. Amongst other things they provide the ECNI with a duty to promote equality of opportunity between persons of differing sexual orientations, provides them with the power to undertake or assist research and education and provide assistance (regulation 28) and with the power to issue codes of practice if they think fit (regulation 29). They are also given the power to conduct formal investigations (regulation 30).

Regulations 36 to 48 deal with the enforcement of the Regulations. As these Regulations deal with matters that fall only to goods, facilities and services, any legal recourse will be for a claim in tort for breach of a statutory duty, except where specific criminal offences are created (regulations 20-22). In both cases recourse will be through the county court. The ECNI is given powers to issue non-discrimination notices (regulation 37) and to deal with the compliance of those notices (regulation 39). Enforcement of regulations 19-22 will only be by the ECNI (regulation 43). Regulation 42 and Schedules 1 and 2 include a questionnaire procedure to assist complainants in obtaining information from respondents, and regulation 45 provides the ECNI with power to provide assistance (legal or otherwise) to claimants under these Regulations. Regulation 46 deals with the timescales within which cases should be brought.

Regulations 49 to 51 provide general exceptions to the Regulations for differences of treatment related to safeguarding national security or protecting public order and public safety. They also provide exceptions for indirect access to benefits, and acts done under statutory authority. Regulation 52 deals with burden of proof in the county court and regulation 53 deals with Crown application. Regulation 54 covers the extent of the Regulations.
