(1) This section applies to a person (“the suspect”) who—

- (a) is detained under section 24;
- (b) attends voluntarily at an office of Revenue and Customs or any other premises or place for the purpose of being questioned by an officer on suspicion of having committed a Revenue and Customs offence; or

- (a) the fact of the suspect’s detention, voluntary attendance or arrest (as the case may be);
- (b) the office of Revenue and Customs or other premises or place at which the suspect is being detained or is attending; and
- (c) that the solicitor’s professional assistance is required by the suspect.

(3) The suspect also has a right to a private consultation with a solicitor—

- (a) before any questioning of the suspect by an officer begins; and
- (b) at any other time during such questioning.

(4) Subsection (3) is subject to subsections (8) and (9).

(5) In subsection (3) “consultation” means consultation by such means as may be appropriate in the circumstances (and may include, for example, consultation by means of telephone).

(6) The suspect must be informed of the rights under subsections (2) and (3)—

(a) 1995 c. 39 (“the 1995 Consolidation Act”).

- (a) on arrival at the office of Revenue and Customs or other premises or place;
- (b) in the case where the suspect is detained under section 24 after such arrival, on the suspect's detention; and

(3) Representations may be oral or written.

(4) The custody review officer may refuse to hear oral representations from the detained person if the officer considers that the detained person is unfit to make representations because of the person’s condition or behaviour.

(5) Where the custody review officer decides to authorise the extension, the officer must ensure that the following persons are informed of the decision and the grounds on which the extension is authorised—

- (a) the detained person; and
- (b) any solicitor representing the detained person who is available at the time the decision is made.

(6) Subsection (7) applies where—

- (a) the custody review officer decides to authorise the extension; and
- (b) at the time of the decision, the detained person has not exercised all the person’s rights under sections 25 and 25A.

(7) The custody review officer must—

- (b) if the officer considers there are possible grounds under section 25(1) or 25A(7)(b) or (8) (as the case may be) for delaying the exercise of any such right, decide whether or not to delay the exercise of the right.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Order)

This Order makes provision consequential on the Criminal Procedure (Legal Assistance, Detention and Appeals) (Scotland) Act 2010 (2010 asp 15) (“2010 ASP”). That Act makes provision concerning the right to have access to a solicitor of persons being questioned by a constable on suspicion of having committed an offence. It also extends the period for which persons may be detained by a constable from 6 to 12 hours, with a possible further extension up to a maximum of 24 hours. Article 2 introduces Schedule 1 to the Order, which makes provision corresponding to the 2010 ASP in relation to persons being questioned by officers of Revenue and Customs and designated customs officials on suspicion of having committed a Revenue and Customs offence (“relevant suspects”). Schedule 1 amends Part 3 of the Criminal Law (Consolidation) (Scotland) Act 1995 (“1995 Act”) by inserting a new section 25A which makes provision in respect of the right of relevant suspects to have access to a solicitor prior to and during questioning. Further, it extends the period of detention under section 24 of the 1995 Act from 6 to 12 hours and it provides for that period to be further extended up to a maximum period of 24 hours in certain circumstances.

Article 3 allows criminal advice and assistance under the 1986 Act to be made available to relevant suspects.

Article 4 extends regulation 8 of the Advice and Assistance Civil Legal Aid (Financial Conditions and Contributions) (Scotland) Regulations 2011 to provide for advice and assistance to be available to relevant suspects without reference to financial limits subject to transitional arrangements.

Article 5 extends regulation 3 of the Criminal Legal Assistance (Duty Solicitors) (Scotland) Regulations 2011, which provides for the availability of duty solicitors for suspects, to relevant suspects subject to transitional arrangements.

Article 6 introduces Schedule 2 to the Order, which amends Part 10 of the Criminal Justice and Public Order Act 1994 (“the 1994 Act”). It applies the right of persons arrested or detained to have intimation sent to another person and the right of suspects to have access to a solicitor under the Criminal Procedure (Scotland) Act 1995 (as amended by the 2010 ASP), with modifications, to persons who are arrested or detained by the Scottish police using the cross-border enforcement powers in Part 10 of the 1994 Act. Schedule 2 also extends the period for which persons may be detained to 12 hours after the person’s arrival at the police station to which the person is taken following detention under the 1994 Act and it provides for the possibility of further extension up to a maximum period of 24 hours.

Article 7 makes amendments to section 87 of the Finance Act 2007 to extend the amendments to Part 10 of the 1994 Act to cross-border detentions and arrests by officers of Revenue and Customs and designated customs officials.
