

Tweed Fisheries Amendment Act 1859

1859 CHAPTER lxx 22 and 23 Vict

IV Extension of Limits of the Mouth or Entrance of the River Tweed.

For the Purposes of the recited Act and this Act, and subject as herein-after provided, the Limits of the Mouth or Entrance of the River Tweed shall be deemed to extend and shall extend from the Pier called Queen Elizabeth's Pier, along the Sea Coast on the South Side of the said Pier to a Point at High-water Mark on the said Sea Coast on the South Side distant Seven Miles measured in a straight Line from the Lighthouse on the said Pier, and along the Sea Coast on the North Side of the said Pier to the Point of Boundary at High-water Mark between the Borough of Berwick-on-Tweed and the Kingdom of Scotland, and shall also extend Five Miles in front of the Mouth of the said River and of the whole Line of Sea Coast within the Points of Boundary herein-before mentioned into the Sea, such Distance towards the Sea to be computed by Lines drawn at Right Angles to a Line Drawn between the said Northern and Southern Extremities; and the said Limits on the South shall be deemed to include and shall include the Fishery now known as the Holy Island Station of the Goswick Fisheries.

Changes to legislation:

There are currently no known outstanding effects for the Tweed Fisheries Amendment Act 1859, Section IV.