TRANSITIONAL PROVISIONS

1. In relation to an offence against any section in Part I or Part II of the Naval Discipline Act, the provisions of sections forty-three and forty-four of this Act and of Part II of this Act and any orders and regulations made under those provisions shall, so far as applicable, apply as if the said section had been contained in Part I of this Act and this Act had been in force when the offence was committed, and as if any finding or punishment having effect before the date of the commencement of this Act, and anything done before that date by virtue of or in relation to such a finding or sentence, had been come to, awarded or done under this Act :

Provided that nothing in this paragraph shall render an offence capable of being tried under this Act, if by reason of the time or place of the commission of the offence it could not have been so tried or dealt with under the Naval Discipline Act ; and no greater punishment shall be imposed in respect of an offence committed before the said date than could have been imposed under the law in force when it was committed.

2. Notwithstanding anything in paragraph 1 of this Schedule, where any proceedings for such an offence as aforesaid have been begun before the date of the commencement of this Act, any step in the proceedings taken after that date shall be deemed to be validly taken if taken in accordance with the Naval Discipline Act and the orders and regulations made thereunder.

3. - (a) to have committed an offence continuing over a period beginning before that date and ending thereon or thereafter ; or
- (b) to have committed an offence between two dates falling within such a period,
