

Unfair Contract Terms Act 1977

1977 CHAPTER 50

PART II

AMENDMENT OF LAW FOR SCOTLAND

22 Consequence of breach.

For the avoidance of doubt, where any provision of this Part of this Act requires that the incorporation of a term in a contract must be fair and reasonable for that term to have effect—

- (a) if that requirement is satisfied, the term may be given effect to notwithstanding that the contract has been terminated in consequence of breach of that contract;
- (b) for the term to be given effect to, that requirement must be satisfied even where a party who is entitled to rescind the contract elects not to rescind it.
