32 Payrolls and accounts.

- (1) Subject to subsection (2) below, personal data held by a data user only for one or more of the following purposes—
 - (a) calculating amounts payable by way of remuneration or pensions in respect of service in any employment or office or making payments of, or of sums deducted from, such remuneration or pensions; or
 - (b) keeping accounts relating to any business or other activity carried on by the data user or keeping records of purchases, sales or other transactions for the purpose of ensuring that the requisite payments are made by or to him in respect of those transactions or for the purpose of making financial or management forecasts to assist him in the conduct of any such business or activity, are exempt from the provisions of Part II of this Act and of sections 21 to 24 above.
- (2) It shall be a condition of the exemption of any data under this section that the data are not used for any purpose other than the purpose or purposes for which they are held and are not disclosed except as permitted by subsections (3) and (4) below; but the exemption shall not be lost by any use or disclosure in breach of that condition if the data user shows that he had taken such care to prevent it as in all the circumstances was reasonably required.
- (3) Data held only for one or more of the purposes mentioned in subsection (1) (a) above may be disclosed—

Status: Point in time view as at 01/08/1991.

Changes to legislation: There are currently no known outstanding effects for the Data Protection Act 1984 (repealed 1.3.2000), Part IV. (See end of Document for details)

- (a) to any person, other than the data user, by whom the remuneration or pensions in question are payable;
 - (b) for the purpose of obtaining actuarial advice;
 - (c) for the purpose of giving information as to the persons in any employment or office for use in medical research into the health of, or injuries suffered by, persons engaged in particular occupations or working in particular places or areas;
 - (d) if the data subject (or a person acting on his behalf) has requested or consented to the disclosure of the data either generally or in the circumstances in which the disclosure in question is made; or
 - (e) if the person making the disclosure has reasonable grounds for believing that the disclosure falls within paragraph (d) above.
- (4) Data held for any of the purposes mentioned in subsection (1) above may be disclosed—
- (a) for the purpose of audit or where the disclosure is for the purpose only of giving information about the data user’s financial affairs; or
 - (b) in any case in which disclosure would be permitted by any other provision of this Part of this Act if subsection (2) above were included among the non-disclosure provisions.
- (5) In this section “remuneration” includes remuneration in kind and “pensions” includes gratuities or similar benefits.

33 Domestic or other limited purposes.

- (1) Personal data held by an individual and concerned only with the management of his personal, family or household affairs or held by him only for recreational purposes are exempt from the provisions of Part II of this Act and of sections 21 to 24 above.
- (2) Subject to subsections (3) and (4) below—
- (a) personal data held by an unincorporated members’ club and relating only to the members of the club; and
 - (b) personal data held by a data user only for the purpose of distributing, or recording the distribution of, articles or information to the data subjects and consisting only of their names, addresses or other particulars necessary for effecting the distribution,
- are exempt from the provisions of Part II of this Act and of sections 21 to 24 above.
- (3) Neither paragraph (a) nor paragraph (b) of subsection (2) above applies to personal data relating to any data subject unless he has been asked by the club or data user whether he objects to the data relating to him being held as mentioned in that paragraph and has not objected.
- (4) It shall be a condition of the exemption of any data under paragraph (b) of subsection (2) above that the data are not used for any purpose other than that for which they are held and of the exemption of any data under either paragraph of that subsection that the data are not disclosed except as permitted by subsection (5) below; but the first exemption shall not be lost by any use, and neither exemption shall be lost by any disclosure, in breach of that condition if the data user shows that he had taken such care to prevent it as in all the circumstances was reasonably required.
- (5) Data to which subsection (4) above applies may be disclosed—

Status: Point in time view as at 01/08/1991.

Changes to legislation: There are currently no known outstanding effects for the Data Protection Act 1984 (repealed 1.3.2000), Part IV. (See end of Document for details)

- (a) if the data subject (or a person acting on his behalf) has requested or consented to the disclosure of the data either generally or in the circumstances in which the disclosure in question is made;
 - (b) if the person making the disclosure has reasonable grounds for believing that the disclosure falls within paragraph (a) above; or
 - (c) in any case in which disclosure would be permitted by any other provision of this Part of this Act if subsection (4) above were included among the non-disclosure provisions.
- (6) Personal data held only for—
- (a) preparing statistics; or
 - (b) carrying out research,
- are exempt from the subject access provisions; but it shall be a condition of that exemption that the data are not used or disclosed for any other purpose and that the resulting statistics or the results of the research are not made available in a form which identifies the data subjects or any of them.

34 Other exemptions.

- (1) Personal data held by any person are exempt from the provisions of Part II of this Act and of sections 21 to 24 above if the data consist of information which that person is required by or under any enactment to make available to the public, whether by publishing it, making it available for inspection or otherwise and whether gratuitously or on payment of a fee.
- (2) The Secretary of State may by order exempt from the subject access provisions personal data consisting of information the disclosure of which is prohibited or restricted by or under any enactment if he considers that the prohibition or restriction ought to prevail over those provisions in the interests of the data subject or of any other individual.
- (3) Where all the personal data relating to a data subject held by a data user (or all such data in respect of which a data user has a separate entry in the register) consist of information in respect of which the data subject is entitled to make a request to the data user under section 158 of the ^{M1}Consumer Credit Act 1974 (files of credit reference agencies)—
 - (a) the data are exempt from the subject access provisions; and
 - (b) any request in respect of the data under section 21 above shall be treated for all purposes as if it were a request under the said section 158.
- (4) Personal data are exempt from the subject access provisions if the data are kept only for the purpose of replacing other data in the event of the latter being lost, destroyed or impaired.
- (5) Personal data are exempt from the non-disclosure provisions in any case in which the disclosure is—
 - (a) required by or under any enactment, by any rule of law or by the order of a court; or
 - (b) made for the purpose of obtaining legal advice or for the purposes of, or in the course of, legal proceedings in which the person making the disclosure is a party or a witness.
- (6) Personal data are exempt from the non-disclosure provisions in any case in which—

Changes to legislation: There are currently no known outstanding effects for the Data Protection Act 1984 (repealed 1.3.2000), Part IV. (See end of Document for details)

- (a) the disclosure is to the data subject or a person acting on his behalf; or
 - (b) the data subject or any such person has requested or consented to the particular disclosure in question; or
 - (c) the disclosure is by a data user or a person carrying on a computer bureau to his servant or agent for the purpose of enabling the servant or agent to perform his functions as such; or
 - (d) the person making the disclosure has reasonable grounds for believing that the disclosure falls within any of the foregoing paragraphs of this subsection.
- (7) Section 4 (3)(d) above does not apply to any disclosure falling within paragraph (a), (b) or (c) of subsection (6) above; and that subsection shall apply to the restriction on disclosure in section 33 (6) above as it applies to the non-disclosure provisions.
- (8) Personal data are exempt from the non-disclosure provisions in any case in which the disclosure is urgently required for preventing injury or other damage to the health of any person or persons; and in proceedings against any person for contravening a provision mentioned in section 26(3)(a) above it shall be a defence to prove that he had reasonable grounds for believing that the disclosure in question was urgently required for that purpose.
- (9) A person need not comply with a notice, request or order under the subject access provisions if compliance would expose him to proceedings for any offence other than an offence under this Act; and information disclosed by any person in compliance with such a notice, request or order shall not be admissible against him in proceedings for an offence under this Act.
