

Electronic Communications Act 2000

2000 CHAPTER 7

PART III

MISCELLANEOUS AND SUPPLEMENTAL

Supplemental

14 Prohibition on key escrow requirements.

- (1) Subject to subsection (2), nothing in this Act shall confer any power on any Minister of the Crown, on the Scottish Ministers, on the National Assembly for Wales or on any person appointed under section 3—
- (a) by conditions of an approval under Part I, or
 - (b) by any regulations or order under this Act,
- to impose a requirement on any person to deposit a key for electronic data with another person.
- (2) Subsection (1) shall not prohibit the imposition by an order under section 8 of—
- (a) a requirement to deposit a key for electronic data with the intended recipient of electronic communications comprising the data; or
 - (b) a requirement for arrangements to be made, in cases where a key for data is not deposited with another person, which otherwise secure that the loss of a key, or its becoming unusable, does not have the effect that the information contained in a record kept in pursuance of any provision made by or under any enactment or subordinate legislation becomes inaccessible or incapable of being put into an intelligible form.
- (3) In this section “key”, in relation to electronic data, means any code, password, algorithm, key or other data the use of which (with or without other keys)—
- (a) allows access to the electronic data, or
 - (b) facilitates the putting of the electronic data into an intelligible form;

Changes to legislation: There are currently no known outstanding effects for the Electronic Communications Act 2000, Section 14. (See end of Document for details) and references in this section to depositing a key for electronic data with a person include references to doing anything that has the effect of making the key available to that person.

Changes to legislation:

There are currently no known outstanding effects for the Electronic Communications Act 2000, Section 14.