PENSIONS

The Pensions Increase (Judicial Pensions) Regulations 1972

Made	- - - -	27th January 1972
Laid before Parliament		3rd February 1972
Coming into Operation		24th February 1972

The Minister for the Civil Service, in exercise of the powers conferred on him by section 5(3) and (4) of the Pensions (Increase) Act 1971 and of all other powers enabling him in that behalf, hereby makes the following Regulations:—

1. These Regulations may be cited as the Pensions Increase (Judicial Pensions) Regulations 1972, and shall come into operation on 24th February 1972.

2.—(1) In these Regulations—

“the 1971 Act” means the Pensions (Increase) Act 1971;

“judicial pension” means any of the pensions specified in the Schedule to these Regulations.

(2) Any reference in these Regulations to the provisions of any enactment or instrument shall be construed, unless the context otherwise requires, as a reference to those provisions as amended by any subsequent enactment or instrument.

(3) The Interpretation Act 1889 shall apply for the interpretation of these Regulations as it applies for the interpretation of an Act of Parliament.

3. The provisions of the 1971 Act shall apply in relation to a judicial pension subject to the modifications specified in the following provisions of these Regulations.

4.—(1) Subject to the provisions of these Regulations, the increase that may be made in a judicial pension under the 1971 Act shall be the amount necessary to bring the annual rate up to that arrived at by applying the multiplier given, for the period in which the pension began, in column 3 of the table set out below the description of the pension in the Schedule to these Regulations—

(a) in a case where the multiplier is not marked with an asterisk, to the basic rate of the pension, or

(b) in a case where the multiplier is marked with an asterisk, to the 1971 rate with the addition (if any) to be made to that rate under section 6(5) of the 1971 Act.

Status: This is the original version (as it was originally made). This item of legislation is currently only available in its original format. The electronic version of this UK Statutory Instrument has been contributed by Westlaw and is taken from the printed publication. Read more

(2) Where a judicial pension begins after the last, or only, date given in column 2 of the table relating to the pension in the Schedule to these Regulations, no increase shall be payable on that pension under the 1971 Act.

5.—(1) Where a judicial pension is a derivative pension which first becomes payable after the coming into operation of these Regulations, the increase that may be made in it under the 1971 Act shall be the amount necessary to bring the annual rate up to whichever is the higher of—

- (a) the annual rate to which it may be increased in accordance with Regulation 4 above, or
- (b) the annual rate arrived at by multiplying by 1·1800 the 1971 rate (ascertained in accordance with paragraph (2) below) with the addition (if any) to be made to that rate under section 6(5) of the 1971 Act.

(2) Where a judicial pension falls to be increased in accordance with paragraph (1)(b) above by reference to the 1971 rate, that rate shall be ascertained in accordance with section 6(4) of the 1971 Act, but the pension shall, for the purposes of the Pensions (Preservation of Increases) Order 1971(1), be taken to have begun on the date given in column 1 of the table relating to the pension in the Schedule to these Regulations as the date preceding the period during which the pension actually began.

6. Any increase of pension payable by virtue of these Regulations shall take effect from 1st September 1971.

Given under the official seal of the Minister for the Civil Service on 27th January 1972.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

These Regulations modify the provisions of the Pensions (Increase) Act 1971 in their application to certain pensions payable in respect of service in judicial and other similar offices and calculated by reference to actual salary at retirement rather than by reference to salary averaged over the last 3 or 5 years of service. The increase payable under the Regulations on any pension calculated by reference to a particular rate of salary is in general equivalent to the increase which would be payable under section 1 or section 6 of the Act, as the case may be, on a pension which began on the day after that rate of salary first became applicable to the judicial office concerned.

The Regulations provide for pensions to be increased by the application of a multiplier given in tables in the Schedule. In cases where the appropriate increase is, subject to modification, that provided for in section 1(1) of the 1971 Act, the Regulations provide for the multiplier to be applied to the basic rate of the pension. In cases where the 1969 standard (provided for in section 1(1)(a) of the 1971 Act) of a pension beginning before 1969 is less than the 1971 rate of the pension (i.e. the basic rate plus increases payable under previous Pensions (Increase) Acts), and consequently the appropriate increase is, subject to modification, that provided for in section 6(1) of the 1971 Act, the Regulations provide for the multiplier to be applied to the 1971 rate of the pension with the addition of any supplement payable under section 6(5) of the 1971 Act (which represents the special increase payable to persons over 70 under section 2 of the Pensions (Increase) Act 1962).

Status: This is the original version (as it was originally made). This item of legislation is currently only available in its original format. The electronic version of this UK Statutory Instrument has been contributed by Westlaw and is taken from the printed publication. Read more

Where the multiplier has to be applied to the 1971 rate of the pension, and that rate has to be ascertained by reference to the Pensions (Preservation of Increases) Order 1971 (because the pension in question was not actually in payment on 31st August 1971), the Regulations provide for the date given in column 1 of the appropriate table in the Schedule to be taken, for the purposes of the Order, as the date on which the pension began.

In some cases these Regulations restrict the amount of increase that would normally be payable under the provisions of the Act so as to secure that the rate of pension in payment will not exceed the pension that would be currently awarded for a similar record of service.

In accordance with the power conferred by section 5(4) of the 1971 Act, the Regulations provide for the increases to take effect from 1st September 1971.
