The court in deciding whether to allow such a fee and the auditor in determining such a fee shall take into account the following factors—

- (a) the complexity of the litigation and the number, difficulty or novelty of the questions involved;
- (b) the skill, specialised knowledge and responsibility required of and the time and labour expended by the solicitor;

In all other cases a solicitor shall have the option to charge fees either on the basis of Chapter I of the Table of Fees or on the basis of Chapter II thereof, but it shall not be competent to charge fees partly on one basis and partly on the other.

4. The auditor shall have power to increase or decrease any inclusive fee set out in Chapter II of the Table of Fees in this Schedule in any appropriate circumstances.

5. Without prejudice to the generality of paragraph 4 of this Schedule, the auditor shall have the power to apportion any fees set out in Chapter II of the Table of Fees in this Schedule between solicitors in appropriate circumstances or to modify any such fees in the case of a solicitor acting for more than one party in the same litigation or in case of the same solicitor acting in more than one litigation arising out of the same circumstances or in the event of the litigation being settled or disposed of at a stage when the work covered by any inclusive fee has not been completed.
