EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Regulations)

These Regulations impose, for the purposes of section 1 of the School Standards and Framework Act 1998, a limit on class sizes for infant classes at schools in England.

The limit imposed is a maximum of 30 pupils in an infant class at any time while an ordinary teaching session is conducted by a single qualified teacher (or, where the session is conducted by more than one qualified teacher, a maximum of 30 pupils for every teacher). It will take effect as from the beginning of the 2001–2002 school year (regulation 3).

However, where certain types of children (“excepted pupils”) cannot be provided with education at the school in another infant class in which the limit is not exceeded without measures being taken which would prejudice efficient education or the efficient use of resources, those children are not to be counted for the purposes of ascertaining whether or not the limit of 30 is exceeded (regulation 4 and the Schedule). Excepted pupils are—

- (a) children whose statements of special educational needs specify that they should be educated at the school concerned, and who are admitted to the school outside a normal admission round;
- (b) children initially refused admission to a school, but subsequently offered a place outside a normal admission round by direction of an admission appeal panel, or because the person responsible for making the original decision recognises that an error was made in implementing the school’s admission arrangements;
- (c) children who cannot gain a place at any other suitable school within a reasonable distance of their home because they move into the area outside a normal admission round;
- (d) children who are registered pupils at special schools, but who receive part of their education at a mainstream school; and
- (e) children with special educational needs who are normally educated in a special unit in a mainstream school, but who receive part of their lessons in a non-special class.

Status: This is the original version (as it was originally made). This item of legislation is currently only available in its original format.

(Children in categories (a) to (c) will be treated as excepted pupils only during the school year in which they are first admitted to the school. Children in category (d) or (e) will be treated as excepted pupils only when they are in an infant class at the mainstream school or outside the special unit (as the case may be).)
