The Railway Administration Order Rules 2001

PART 9

MISCELLANEOUS AND GENERAL

Special railway administrator's security

9.7.—(1) Wherever under the Rules any person has to appoint, or proposes the appointment of, a person to the office of special railway administrator, he is under a duty to satisfy himself that the person appointed or to be appointed has security for the proper performance of his functions.

(2) In any railway administration proceedings the cost of the special railway administrator's security shall be defrayed as an expense of the proceedings.
