- (c) the determination of each management period must be notified to the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs at the same time as any notification under article 5;

and they are established by that determination and notification unless point 12 of Annex IVa applies to the boat, in which case they are established by confirmation of that determination and notification by the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs taking that point into account.

(2) The person in charge of a British fishing boat may aggregate the days allocated for each calendar month as set out in point 6 of Annex IVa for being present within the area and absent from port, within management periods.

(3) Where a management period covers the month of February—

- (a) a notification given to the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (whether after or in anticipation of the coming into force of this Order) covering a management period including February 2005 and any grouping of gears for the period shall be treated as meeting the requirement of paragraph (1)(c) but with the management period counting as beginning immediately on the date this Order comes into force and ending as notified; and
- (b) the second February stage counts as one month and shall accordingly be treated as a single base unit.

22.—(1) An entry shall be made in a logbook of any relevant British fishing boat which is absent from port (on a trip which includes any period in the sole recovery zone) carrying regulated gear but not fishing as specified in Article 6 of Regulation 2847/93, in respect of each particular gear which would be required to be entered by that article (as amplified by Regulation 2807/83) were the boat so fishing, and such an entry shall state the type of fishing gear carried.

(2) Such an entry shall be made—

- (a) daily, but not later than midnight in respect of each day;

and the requirements of those Regulations for handing over and dispatch of logbook entries shall apply to the entries required by this article as they apply to other entries.

(3) Where a relevant British fishing boat is absent from port and paragraph (1) requires a logbook entry to be made in respect of that absence, the logbook entries shall be handed over and dispatched as if landing were made at the time of the boat's arrival in port.

(4) Where in relation to any time in the Annex IV year there is, in respect of a relevant British fishing boat, a failure to make an entry required by this article, or to comply with requirements for handing over and dispatch referred to in this article, the person in charge of that fishing boat is guilty of an offence.

ENFORCEMENT

(4) A person shall not be liable to a fine under paragraph (3) in respect of such an offence if, under paragraph (2), the court orders the forfeiture of the fish in respect of which that offence was committed; and where a fine is imposed under paragraph (3) in respect of any offence, the court shall not have the power under paragraph (2) to order forfeiture of the fish in respect of the offence was committed.

(5) In any proceedings for an offence under article 4(1)(b) or 14(1)(b), it shall be a defence for a person to show that the number of days absent from port carrying any type of fishing gear comprising the offence was no greater than the number of days of absence carrying that gear purportedly but not validly transferred to that person's fishing boat under article 6 or 16 respectively and that he did not know and had no reasonable cause to suspect that the donor was not entitled to transfer the days.

(6) References in this article to fish in respect of which an offence was committed include fish caught at any time in the period during which the offence was committed.

Recovery of fines

24.—(1) Where a fine is imposed by a magistrates' court on a person in charge of a fishing boat who is convicted by the court of an offence under this Order or any equivalent provision, the court may—

^(a) 1980 c. 43. Section 78 was amended by the Criminal Justice Act 1982 (c.48), sections 37 and 46, and section 90 was amended by the Criminal Justice and Public Order Act 1994 (c.33), section 47(2).

(3) He may require the attendance of the master and other persons on board the boat and may make any examination and inquiry which appears to him to be necessary for the purpose mentioned in paragraph (1) and, in particular—

- (e) where the boat is one in relation to which he has reason to suspect that an offence under any of those articles or any equivalent provision has been committed, may seize and detain any such document produced to him or found on board for the purpose of enabling the document to be used as evidence in proceedings for the offence;

but nothing in sub-paragraph (e) above shall permit any document required by law to be carried on board the boat to be seized and detained except while the boat is detained in a port.

(4) Where it appears to a British sea-fishery officer that an offence under article 3, 4, 5, 8, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 18, 21 or 22, or under any equivalent provision, has at any time been committed in respect of a fishing boat, he may—

- (b) detain, or require the master to detain, the boat in port; and where such an officer detains or requires the detention of the boat he shall serve on the master a notice in writing stating that the boat is (or is required to be) detained until the notice is withdrawn by the service on the master of a further notice in writing signed by a British sea-fishery officer.

(b) 1995 c.46.

Powers of British sea-fishery officers on land

26.—(1) For the purpose of enforcing Part 2 and Part 3 of this Order or any equivalent provisions, or to operate or facilitate the operation of any monitoring deriving from Article 16 of Regulation 423/04 or point 21 of Annex IVc, any British sea-fishery officer may—

- (a) enter and inspect at any reasonable time any premises used for carrying on any business in connection with the operation of fishing boats or activities connected therewith or ancillary thereto or with the treatment, storage or sale of fish;
- (b) take with him such other persons as appear to him to be necessary and any equipment or materials;
- (c) examine any fish on the premises and require persons on the premises to do anything which appears to him to be necessary for facilitating the examination;
- (d) carry out at the premises such other inspections or tests as may reasonably be necessary;
- (e) require any person not to remove or cause to be removed any fish from the premises for such a period as may be reasonably necessary for the purposes of establishing whether an offence under any of those articles or any equivalent provision has at any time been committed;
- (f) require any person on the premises to produce any documents which are in his custody or possession relating to the catching, landing, transportation, trans-shipment, sale or disposal of any fish or to the entry to, or exit from, any port or harbour by any fishing boat;

(3) If a justice of the peace on sworn information in writing is satisfied—

- (a) that there is reasonable ground to believe that any documents or other items which a British sea-fishery officer has power under this article to inspect are on any premises and that their inspection is likely to disclose evidence of the commission of an offence under any of those articles or any equivalent provision; and
- (b) either—
 - (i) that admission to the premises has been or is likely to be refused and that notice of intention to apply for a warrant has been given to the occupier; or
 - (ii) that an application for admission or the giving of such notice would defeat the object of the entry, or that the premises are unoccupied, or that the occupier is temporarily absent and it might defeat the object of the entry to await his return;

the justice may by warrant signed by him, and valid for one month, authorise a British sea-fishery officer to enter the premises, if need be by reasonable force, and take with him such persons as appear to him to be necessary.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Order)

This Order provides for the administration and enforcement in England of the provisions of Annex IVa and IVc (“the Annexes”) to Council Regulation (EC) No. 27/2005 (OJ No L12 14.1.2005. p.1) fixing for 2005 the fishing opportunities and associated conditions for certain fish stocks and groups of fish stocks, applicable in Community waters and, for Community vessels, in waters where catch limitations are required. Further, the Order provides for the enforcement in England of monitoring, inspection and surveillance provisions as set out in Council Regulation (EC) No. 423/2004 (OJ No L70 9.3.2004.p.70) establishing measures for the recovery of cod stocks. Part 2 of the Order relates to Cod and Part 3 to Sole.

The Order contains provisions relating to the establishment and aggregation of management periods (articles 3 and 13 for cod and sole respectively), the number of days which a vessel may be absent from port (articles 4 and 14), the use of regulated fishing gear (articles 5 and 15) and the manner in which days may be transferred between fishing vessels within the same management period (articles 6 and 16).

Further, the Order sets out provisions for the transportation of cod and sole (articles 7 and 17), a provision relating to the mixing of species within containers on board fishing vessels (articles 8 and 18), procedures for the landing of cod in designated and non-designated ports (articles 9 and 10), procedures for transshipment or landing sole in third countries (article 19), a margin of tolerance relating to the recording of catches of fish in logbooks (articles 11 and 21) and provisions relating to the maintenance of logbooks (articles 12 and 22).

The Order creates offences in respect of the contravention, by the person in charge of the relevant fishing boat (or the individuals otherwise specifically referred to) of provisions of the Annexes. The offences relate to absences from port without notified fishing gear (articles 3 and 13) or in excess of the days permitted (articles 4 and 14), failure to use regulated fishing gear in the manner set out in the Annexes (articles 5 and 15), giving false information when attempting to transfer days from one vessel to another (articles 6 and 16), transporting species (articles 7 and 17) or mixing of species (articles 8 and 18) in a manner inconsistent with the Annexes, the landing of cod in designated and non designated ports in contravention of notification and documentary requirements (articles 9 and 10), the transshipment or landing of sole relating to third countries (article 19) and failing to comply with the 8% tolerance for logbook records relating to catches of fish and failure to handover and dispatch logbooks in the manner prescribed (articles 11, 12, 21 and 22).

Part 4 of the Order makes provisions for enforcement. The Order provides that a person guilty of an offence under it other than an offence under article 29 is liable, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding £50,000 and on conviction on indictment to a fine. Further fines up to and including the value of any fish caught in committing the offence are permitted and the court may also order the seizure of fish caught or equipment used in, or in activities leading to, the commission of the offence (article 23).

The Order also provides for the recovery of fines imposed, or treated as imposed, by a magistrates’ court (article 24).

For the purposes of enforcing provisions of the Annexes for which provision is made in Parts 2 and 3 of the Order, the Order confers on British sea-fishery officers the powers to enter premises, to go on board fishing boats, to stop and search vehicles transporting fish, to examine fish, to require the production of documents, to search for and seize documents, to take a boat to the nearest convenient port and to seize fish and fishing gear (articles 25 to 27). Protection of such officers from liability is set out in article 28, and obstructing them is an offence under article 29, with a fine of up to the statutory maximum on summary conviction and a fine on conviction on indictment. Articles 30 and 31 deal with corporate and equivalent offences and admissibility of documents in evidence. Provision for consequential amendment and revocation is made by articles 32 and 33. In addition article 32 includes a provision bringing forward the time for submission of logbook entries for landings in designated ports.

A Regulatory Impact Assessment in relation to the Annexes and this Order has been prepared and placed in the library of each House of Parliament. Copies can be obtained from Defra, Fisheries Division 1, Room 303, 10 Whitehall Place, London SW1A 2HH.
