- (b) arrested at a service police establishment.

(2) The service policeman may record or cause to be recorded in writing all or any of the things which he ascertains under subsection (1).

(3) Subject to subsection (4) below, a service policeman may seize and retain any such thing or cause any such thing to be seized and retained.

(4) Clothes and personal effects may only be seized if a service policeman—

- (a) believes that the person from whom they are seized may use them—
 - (i) to cause physical injury to himself or any other person;
 - (ii) to damage property;
 - (iii) to interfere with evidence; or
 - (iv) to assist him to escape; or
- (b) has reasonable grounds for believing that they may be evidence related to an offence.

(5) Where anything is seized, the person from whom it is seized shall be told the reason for the seizure unless he is—

- (a) violent or likely to become violent; or
- (b) incapable of understanding what is said to him.

(6) Subject to subsection (7) below, a person may be searched if the service policeman considers it necessary to enable him to carry out his duty under subsection (1) above and to the extent that the service policeman considers necessary for that purpose.

(6A) A person who is in custody at a service police establishment may at any time be searched in order to ascertain whether he has with him anything which he could use for any of the purposes specified in subsection (4)(a) above.

Status: This is the original version (as it was originally made). This item of legislation is currently only available in its original format.

Searches and examination to ascertain identity

54A.—(1) If an authorising service policeman authorises it, a person who is in custody at a service police establishment may be searched or examined, or both—

- (a) for the purpose of ascertaining whether he has any mark that would tend to identify him as a person involved in the commission of an offence; or
- (b) for the purpose of facilitating the ascertainment of his identity.

(2) An authorising service policeman may only give an authorisation under subsection (1) for the purpose mentioned in paragraph (a) of that subsection if—

- (a) the appropriate consent to a search or examination that would reveal whether the mark in question exists has been withheld; or
- (b) it is not practicable to obtain such consent.

(3) An authorising service policeman may only give an authorisation under subsection (1) in a case in which subsection (2) does not apply if—

- (a) the person in question has refused to identify himself; or
- (b) the authorising service policeman has reasonable grounds for suspecting that that person is not who he claims to be.

(4) An authorising service policeman may give an authorisation under subsection (1) orally or in writing, but, if he gives it orally, he shall confirm it in writing as soon as is practicable.

(5) Any identifying mark found on a search or examination under this section may be photographed—

- (a) with the appropriate consent; or
- (b) if the appropriate consent is withheld or it is not practicable to obtain it, without it.

(6) Where a search or examination may be carried out under this section, or a photograph may be taken under this section, the only persons entitled to carry out the search or examination, or to take the photograph, are service policemen.

(7) A person may not under this section carry out a search or examination of a person of the opposite sex or take a photograph of any part of the body of a person of the opposite sex.

(8) An intimate search may not be carried out under this section.

(9) A photograph taken under this section—

- (a) may be used by, or disclosed to, any person for any purpose related to the detection, investigation or prosecution of offences under the service discipline Acts; and
- (b) after being so used or disclosed, may be retained but may not be used or disclosed except for a purpose so related.

(11) In this section—

- (a) references to ascertaining a person's identity include references to showing that he is not a particular person; and
- (b) references to taking a photograph include references to using any process by means of which a visual image may be produced, and references to photographing a person shall be construed accordingly.

(12) In this section “mark” includes features and injuries; and a mark is an identifying mark for the purposes of this section if its existence in any person's case facilitates the ascertainment of his identity or his identification as a person involved in the commission of an offence.

Intimate searches

55.—(1) Subject to the following provisions of this section, if an authorising service policeman has reasonable grounds for believing—

- (a) that a person who has been arrested and is in custody may have concealed on him anything which—
 - (i) he could use to cause physical injury to himself or others; and
 - (ii) he might so use while he is in custody; or
- (b) that such a person—
 - (i) may have a Class A drug concealed on him; and
 - (ii) was in possession of it with the appropriate criminal intent before his arrest, he may authorise an intimate search of that person.

(2) An authorising service policeman may not authorise an intimate search of a person for anything unless he has reasonable grounds for believing that it cannot be found without his being intimately searched.

(3) An authorising service policeman may give an authorisation under subsection (1) above orally or in writing but, if he gives it orally, he shall confirm it in writing as soon as is practicable.

(3A) A drug offence search shall not be carried out unless the appropriate consent has been given in writing.

(3B) Where it is proposed that a drug offence search be carried out, a service policeman shall inform the person who is to be subject to it—

- (a) of the giving of the authorisation for it; and
- (b) of the grounds for giving the authorisation.

(4) An intimate search which is only a drug offence search shall be by way of examination by a suitably qualified person.

(5) Except as provided by subsection (4) above, an intimate search shall be by way of examination by a suitably qualified person unless an authorising service policeman considers that this is not practicable.

(6) An intimate search which is not carried out as mentioned in subsection (5) above shall be carried out by a service policeman.

(7) A service policeman may not carry out an intimate search of a person of the opposite sex.

(8) No intimate search may be carried out except—

- (a) at a service police establishment;
- (b) at a hospital;
- (c) at a registered medical practitioner's surgery; or
- (d) at some other place used for medical purposes.

(9) An intimate search which is only a drug offence search may not be carried out at a service police establishment.

(10) If an intimate search of a person is carried out a record shall be made in writing by a service policeman stating—

- (a) which parts of his body were searched; and
- (b) why they were searched.

Status: This is the original version (as it was originally made). This item of legislation is currently only available in its original format.

(10A) If the intimate search is a drug offence search, a record shall be made in writing by a service policeman stating—

- (a) the authorisation by virtue of which the search was carried out;
- (b) the grounds for giving the authorisation; and
- (c) the fact that the appropriate consent was given.

(11) The information required to be recorded by subsections (10) and (10A) above shall be recorded as soon as practicable after the completion of the search.

(12) A service policeman may seize and retain anything which is found on an intimate search of a person, or cause any such thing to be seized and retained—

- (a) if he believes that the person from whom it is seized may use it—
 - (i) to cause physical injury to himself or any other person;
 - (ii) to damage property;
 - (iii) to interfere with evidence; or
 - (iv) to assist him to escape; or
- (b) if he has reasonable grounds for believing that it may be evidence relating to an offence.

(13) Where anything is seized under this section, the person from whom it is seized shall be told the reason for the seizure unless he is—

- (a) violent or likely to become violent; or
- (b) incapable of understanding what is said to him.

(13A) Where the appropriate consent to a drug offence search of any person was refused without good cause, in any proceedings against that person for an offence—

- (a) the court, in determining whether there is a case to answer; and
- (c) the court in determining whether that person is guilty of the offence charged,

may draw such inferences from the refusal as appear proper.

(17) In this section—

“the appropriate criminal intent” means an intent to commit an offence under section 70 of the Army Act 1955⁽¹⁾, section 70 of the Air Force Act 1955⁽²⁾ or section 42 of the Naval Discipline Act 1957⁽³⁾ consisting of a civil offence under section 5(3) of the Misuse of Drugs Act 1971 (possession of controlled drug with intent to supply to another);

X-rays and ultrasound scans

55A.—(1) If an authorising service policeman has reasonable grounds for believing that a person who has been arrested for an offence and is in custody—

- (a) may have swallowed a Class A drug, and
- (b) was in possession of it with the appropriate criminal intent before his arrest, the authorising service policeman may authorise that an x-ray is taken of the person or an ultrasound scan is carried out on the person (or both).

(2) An x-ray must not be taken of a person and an ultrasound scan must not be carried out on him unless the appropriate consent has been given in writing.

(3) If it is proposed that an x-ray is taken or an ultrasound scan is carried out, a service policeman must inform the person who is to be subject to it—

- (a) of the giving of the authorisation for it, and
- (b) of the grounds for giving the authorisation.

(4) An x-ray may be taken or an ultrasound scan carried out only by a suitably qualified person and only at—

- (a) the court, in determining whether there is a case to answer, and
- (c) the court, in determining whether that person is guilty of the offence charged,

may draw such inferences from the refusal as appear proper.

(10) In this section, “the appropriate criminal intent”, “Class A drug” and “suitably qualified person” have the same meanings as in section 55 above as amended by this Order.

Right to have someone informed when arrested

56.—(1) Where a person has been arrested and is being held in custody in a service police establishment or other premises, he shall be entitled, if he so requests, to have one friend or relative or other person who is known to him or who is likely to take an interest in his welfare told, as soon as is practicable except to the extent that delay is permitted by this section, that he has been arrested and is being detained there.

Status: This is the original version (as it was originally made). This item of legislation is currently only available in its original format.

- (2) Delay is only permitted—
 - (a) in the case of a person who is in custody for a serious service offence; and
 - (b) if an authorising service policeman authorises it.
- (3) In any case the person in custody must be permitted to exercise the right conferred by subsection (1) above within 36 hours from the time of his arrest.
- (4) An authorising service policeman may give an authorisation under subsection (2) above orally or in writing but, if he gives it orally, he shall confirm it in writing as soon as is practicable.
- (5) An authorising service policeman may only authorise delay where he has reasonable grounds for believing that telling the named person of the arrest—
 - (a) will lead to interference with or harm to evidence connected with a serious service offence or interference with or physical injury to other persons; or
 - (b) will lead to the alerting of other persons suspected of having committed such an offence but not yet arrested for it; or
 - (c) will hinder the recovery of any property obtained as a result of such an offence.
- (6) If a delay is authorised—
 - (a) the person in custody shall be told the reason for it; and
 - (b) the reason shall be recorded in writing by a service policeman.
- (7) The duties imposed by subsection (6) above shall be performed as soon as is practicable.
- (8) The rights conferred by this section on a person held in custody at a service police establishment or other premises are exercisable whenever he is transferred from one place to another; and this section applies to each subsequent occasion on which they are exercisable as it applies to the first such occasion.
- (9) There may be no further delay in permitting the exercise of the right conferred by subsection (1) above once the reason for authorising delay ceases to subsist.

Access to legal advice

- 58.—(1) A person arrested and held in custody in a service police establishment or other premises shall be entitled, if he so requests, to consult a legal adviser privately at any time.
- (2) A request under subsection (1) above and the time at which it was made shall be recorded in writing by a service policeman.

 - (8) An authorising service policeman may only authorise delay where he has reasonable grounds for believing that the exercise of the right conferred by subsection (1) above at the time when the person in custody desires to exercise it—

Status: This is the original version (as it was originally made). This item of legislation is currently only available in its original format.

- (a) will lead to interference with or harm to evidence connected with a serious service offence or interference with or physical injury to other persons; or
 - (b) will lead to the alerting of other persons suspected of having committed such an offence but not yet arrested for it; or
 - (c) will hinder the recovery of any property obtained as a result of such an offence.
- (9) If delay is authorised—
- (a) the person in custody shall be told the reason for it; and
 - (b) the reason shall be recorded in writing by a service policeman.
- (10) The duties imposed by subsection (9) above shall be performed as soon as is practicable.
- (11) There may be no further delay in permitting the exercise of the right conferred by subsection (1) above once the reason for authorising delay ceases to subsist.

Fingerprinting

61.—(1) Except as provided by this section no person's fingerprints may be taken without the appropriate consent.

(2) Consent to the taking of a person's fingerprints must be in writing if it is given at a time when he is at a service police establishment.

(3) The fingerprints of a person in custody at a service police establishment may be taken without the appropriate consent if—

- (a) he is in custody in consequence of his arrest for a recordable service offence; and
- (b) he has not had his fingerprints taken in the course of the investigation of the offence by a service policeman.

(3A) Where a person mentioned in paragraph (a) of subsection (3) or (4) has already had his fingerprints taken in the course of the investigation of the offence by a service policeman, that fact shall be disregarded for the purposes of that subsection if—

- (a) the fingerprints taken on the previous occasion do not constitute a complete set of his fingerprints; or
- (b) some or all of the fingerprints taken on the previous occasion are not of sufficient quality to allow satisfactory analysis, comparison or matching (whether in the case in question or generally).

(4) The fingerprints of a person in custody at a service police establishment may be taken without the appropriate consent if—

- (a) he has been charged with a recordable service offence or informed that he will be reported for such an offence; and

- (a) he shall be told the reason before his fingerprints are taken; and
- (b) the reason shall be recorded in writing by a service policeman as soon as is practicable after the fingerprints are taken.

Status: This is the original version (as it was originally made). This item of legislation is currently only available in its original format.

(7A) If a person's fingerprints are taken at a service police establishment whether with or without the appropriate consent—

- (a) before the fingerprints are taken, a service policeman shall inform him that they may be the subject of a speculative search; and
- (b) the fact that the person has been informed of this possibility shall be recorded in writing by a service policeman as soon as is practicable after the fingerprints have been taken.

(8) If he is in custody at a service police establishment when the fingerprints are taken, the reason for taking them and, in the case falling within subsection (7A) above, the fact referred to in paragraph (b) of that subsection shall be recorded in writing by a service policeman.

(8B) The power to take the fingerprints of a person in custody at a service police establishment without the appropriate consent shall be exercisable by any service policeman.

(10) Nothing in this section applies to a person arrested under an extradition arrest power.

(4) Where a person mentioned in paragraph (a) of subsection (3) above has already had an impression taken of his footwear in the course of the investigation of the offence by a service policeman, that fact shall be disregarded for the purposes of that subsection if the impression of his footwear taken previously is—

- (a) incomplete; or
- (b) is not of sufficient quality to allow satisfactory analysis, comparison or matching (whether in the case in question or generally).

(5) If an impression of a person's footwear is taken at a service police establishment, whether with or without the appropriate consent—

- (a) before it is taken, a service policeman shall inform him that it may be the subject of a speculative search; and
- (b) the fact that the person has been informed of this possibility shall be recorded in writing by a service policeman as soon as is practicable after the impression has been taken.

(6) In a case where, by virtue of subsection (3) above, an impression of a person's footwear is taken without the appropriate consent—

- (a) he shall be told the reason before it is taken; and
- (b) the reason shall be recorded in writing by a service policeman as soon as is practicable after the impression is taken.

(7) The power to take an impression of the footwear of a person in custody at a service police establishment without the appropriate consent shall be exercisable by any service policeman.

(8) Nothing in this section applies to any person arrested under an extradition arrest power.

- (a) if an authorising service policeman authorises it to be taken; and
- (b) if the appropriate consent is given.

(1A) An intimate sample may be taken from a person who is not in custody at a service police establishment but from whom, in the course of the investigation of an offence, two or more non-intimate samples suitable for the same means of analysis have been taken which have proved insufficient—

- (a) if an authorising service policeman authorises it to be taken; and
- (b) if the appropriate consent is given.

(2) An authorising service policeman may only give an authorisation under subsection (1) or (1A) above if he has reasonable grounds—

- (a) for suspecting the involvement of the person from whom the sample is to be taken in a recordable service offence; and
- (b) for believing that the sample will tend to confirm or disprove his involvement.

(3) An authorising service policeman may give an authorisation under subsection (1) or (1A) above orally or in writing but, if he gives it orally, he shall confirm it in writing as soon as is practicable.

(4) The appropriate consent must be given in writing.

(7) If an intimate sample is taken from a person—

- (a) the authorisation by virtue of which it was taken;
- (b) the grounds for giving the authorisation; and
- (c) the fact that the appropriate consent was given,

shall be recorded in writing by a service policeman as soon as is practicable after the sample is taken.

(7A) If an intimate sample is taken from a person at a service police establishment—

- (a) the court in determining whether there is a case to answer; and
- (b) the court in determining whether that person is guilty of the offence charged, may draw such inferences from the refusal as appear proper and “court” shall have the same meaning as applied by this Order in relation to section 55(17).

(11) Nothing in this section applies to the taking of a specimen for the purposes of any of the provisions of sections 5 to 10 of the Road Traffic Act 1988⁽⁶⁾ as applied to persons subject to the service discipline Acts by section 184 of that Act, to the provision of a sample for drug testing nor to the provision of a sample under section 32 of the Armed Forces Act 2001⁽⁷⁾.

Other samples

63.—(1) Except as provided by this section, a non-intimate sample may not be taken from a person without the appropriate consent.

(2) Consent to the taking of a non-intimate sample must be given in writing.

(2A) A non-intimate sample may be taken from a person without the appropriate consent if two conditions are satisfied.

(2B) The first is that the person is in custody at a service police establishment in consequence of his arrest for a recordable service offence.

(2C) The second is that—

- (a) he has not had a non-intimate sample of the same type and from the same part of the body taken in the course of the investigation of the offence by a service policeman, or
- (b) he has had such a sample taken but it proved insufficient.

(3) A non-intimate sample may be taken from a person without the appropriate consent if—

- (a) he is being held in custody on the order of a judicial officer; and
- (b) an authorising service policeman authorises it to be taken without the appropriate consent.

(3A) A non-intimate sample may be taken from a person (whether or not he is in custody at a service police establishment after arrest or held in custody during court-martial proceedings) without the appropriate consent if—

(3B) A non-intimate sample may be taken from a person without the appropriate consent if he has been convicted of a recordable service offence.

(3C) A non-intimate sample may also be taken from a person without the appropriate consent if he is a person to whom section 116A of the Army Act 1955⁽⁸⁾, section 116A of the Air Force Act 1955⁽⁹⁾ or section 63A of the Naval Discipline Act 1957⁽¹⁰⁾ applies and he has been made the subject of a hospital order.

(4) An authorising service policeman may only give an authorisation under subsection (3) above if he has reasonable grounds—

- (a) for suspecting the involvement of the person from whom the sample is to be taken in a recordable service offence; and

(5) An authorising service policeman may give an authorisation under subsection (3) above orally or in writing but, if he gives it orally, he shall confirm it in writing as soon as is practicable.

(5A) An authorising service policeman shall not give an authorisation under subsection (3) above for the taking from any person of a non-intimate sample consisting of a skin impression if—

- (a) a skin impression of the same part of the body has already been taken from that person in the course of the investigation of the offence; and
- (b) the impression previously taken is not one that has proved insufficient.

(6) Where—

- (a) an authorisation has been given; and
- (b) it is proposed that a non-intimate sample shall be taken in pursuance of the authorisation, a service policeman shall inform the person from whom the sample is to be taken—

- (i) of the giving of the authorisation; and
- (ii) of the grounds for giving it.

(7) The duty imposed by subsection (6)(ii) above includes a duty to state the nature of the offence in which it is suspected that the person from whom the sample is to be taken has been involved.

- (b) the grounds for giving the authorisation,

shall be recorded in writing by a service policeman as soon as is practicable after the sample is taken.

(8A) In a case where by virtue of subsection (2A), (3A), (3B) or (3C) above a sample is taken from a person without the appropriate consent—
