 - (ii) a postponement which is occasioned by the ordering by the court of separate trials in the case of two or more defendants or two or more offences, or

Summary of the general entitlement to bail and of the exceptions

The court must consider bail whenever it can order the defendant's detention pending trial or sentencing, and whether an application is made or not. Under section 4 of the Bail Act 1976(35), the general rule, subject to exceptions, is that a defendant must be granted bail. Under Part IIA of Schedule 1 to the Act(36), if the court decides not to grant the defendant bail then at each subsequent hearing the court must consider whether to grant bail.

(34) 1985 c. 23; section 22(7) and (8) was amended by section 43 of the Crime and Disorder Act 1998 (c. 37).

(35) 1976 c. 63; section 4 was amended by section 154 of, and paragraph 145 of Schedule 7 to, the Magistrates' Courts Act 1980 (c. 43), section 168 of, and paragraphs 32 and 33 of Schedule 10 to, the Criminal Justice and Public Order Act 1994 (c. 33), section 58 of the Criminal Justice and Court Services Act 2000 (c. 43), sections 198 and 220 of, and Schedule 4 to, the Extradition Act 2003 (c. 41), section 304 of, and paragraphs 20 and 22 of Schedule 32 to, the Criminal Justice Act 2003 (c. 44), section 42 of, and paragraph 34 of Schedule 13 to, the Police and Justice Act 2006 (c. 48), sections 6 and 148 of, and paragraphs 23 and 102 of Schedule 4 and Part 1 of Schedule 28 to, the Criminal Justice and Immigration Act 2008 (c. 4) and paragraph 19 of Schedule 7, and Schedule 8, to the Policing and Crime Act 2009 (c. 26).

(36) 1976 c. 63; Schedule 1, Part IIA was added by section 154 of the Criminal Justice Act 1988 (c. 33).

Section 3 of the Bail Act 1976(37) allows the court, before granting bail, to require a surety or security to secure the defendant's surrender to custody; and allows the court, on granting bail, to impose such requirements as appear to the court to be necessary—

- (a) to secure that the defendant surrenders to custody;
- (b) to secure that the defendant does not commit an offence while on bail;
- (c) to secure that the defendant does not interfere with witnesses or otherwise obstruct the course of justice whether in relation to the defendant or any other person;
- (d) for the defendant's own protection or, if a child or young person, for the defendant's welfare or in the defendant's own interests;
- (e) to secure the defendant's availability for the purpose of enabling enquiries or a report to be made to assist the court in dealing with the defendant for the offence;
- (f) to secure that before the time appointed for surrender to custody the defendant attends an interview with a legal representative.

Under section 3 of the Bail Act 1976, a person granted bail in criminal proceedings is under a duty to surrender to custody as required by that bail. Under section 6 of the Act, such a person who fails without reasonable cause so to surrender commits an offence and, under section 7, may be arrested.

Exceptions to the general right to bail are listed in Schedule 1 to the Bail Act 1976(38). They differ according to the category of offence concerned. Some exceptions do not apply where the defendant is 18 or over and has not been convicted in the current proceedings, and it appears to the court that there is no real prospect that the defendant will be sentenced to a custodial sentence in those proceedings.

Under Part I of Schedule 1 to the 1976 Act, where the offence is punishable with imprisonment, and is not one that can be tried only in a magistrates' court—

- (a) the defendant need not be granted bail if the court is satisfied that—

It is further amended by paragraphs 1 to 4 of Schedule 11, and paragraphs 14 and 15 of Schedule 12, to the Legal Aid, Sentencing and Punishment of Offenders Act 2012 (c. 10) with effect from a date to be appointed. The amendments made by Schedule 3 to the Criminal Justice Act 2003 (c. 44) are in force only in relation to certain cases and in relation to certain local justice areas (see S.I. 2012/1320) and otherwise have effect from a date to be appointed.

- (i) there are substantial grounds for believing that, if released on bail (with or without conditions), the defendant would fail to surrender to custody, would commit an offence, or would interfere with witnesses or otherwise obstruct the course of justice,
- (ii) the defendant should be kept in custody for his or her own protection or welfare, or
- (iii) it has not been practicable, for want of time since the institution of the proceedings, to obtain sufficient information for the court to take the decisions required;
- (b) the defendant need not be granted bail if in custody pursuant to a sentence;
- (c) the defendant need not be granted bail if it appears to the court that it would be impracticable to complete enquiries or a report for which the case is to be adjourned without keeping the defendant in custody;
- (d) the defendant need not be granted bail if, having been released on bail in the case on a previous occasion, the defendant since has been arrested for breach of bail;
- (e) the defendant may not be granted bail if charged with murder, unless the court is of the opinion that there is no significant risk of the defendant committing an offence while on bail that would, or would be likely to, cause physical or mental injury to some other person.

In such a case, in deciding whether an exception to the right to bail applies the court must have regard to any relevant consideration, including—

- (a) the nature and seriousness of the offence, and the probable method of dealing with the defendant for it;
- (b) the character, antecedents, associations and community ties of the defendant;
- (c) the defendant's record of fulfilling obligations imposed under previous grants of bail; and
- (d) except where the case is adjourned for enquiries or a report, the strength of the evidence of the defendant having committed the offence.

Under Part IA of Schedule 1 to the 1976 Act, where the offence is punishable with imprisonment, and is one that can be tried only in a magistrates' court—

- (a) the defendant need not be granted bail if it appears to the court that—
 - (i) having previously been granted bail in criminal proceedings, the defendant has failed to surrender as required and, in view of that failure, the court believes that, if released on bail (with or without conditions), the defendant would fail to surrender to custody, or
 - (ii) the defendant was on bail on the date of the offence and the court is satisfied that there are substantial grounds for believing that, if released on bail (with or without conditions), the defendant would commit an offence while on bail;
- (b) the defendant need not be granted bail if the court is satisfied that—
 - (i) there are substantial grounds for believing that, if released on bail (with or without conditions), the defendant would commit an offence while on bail by engaging in conduct that would, or would be likely to, cause physical or mental injury to some other person, or cause some other person to fear such injury,
 - (ii) the defendant should be kept in custody for his or her own protection or welfare, or
 - (iii) it has not been practicable, for want of time since the institution of the proceedings, to obtain sufficient information for the court to take the decisions required;
- (c) the defendant need not be granted bail if in custody pursuant to a sentence;
- (d) the defendant need not be granted bail if, having been released on bail in the case on a previous occasion, the defendant since has been arrested for breach of bail, and the court is satisfied that there are substantial grounds for believing that, if released on bail (with or without conditions), the defendant would fail to surrender to custody, would commit an offence, or would interfere with witnesses or otherwise obstruct the course of justice.

Under Part II of Schedule 1 to the 1976 Act, where the offence is not punishable with imprisonment—

- (a) the defendant need not be granted bail if it appears to the court that having previously been granted bail in criminal proceedings, the defendant has failed to surrender as required and, in view of that failure, the court believes that, if released on bail (with or without conditions), the defendant would fail to surrender to custody;*
- (b) the defendant need not be granted bail if the court is satisfied that the defendant should be kept in custody for his or her own protection or welfare;*
- (c) the defendant need not be granted bail if in custody pursuant to a sentence;*
- (d) the defendant need not be granted bail if, having been released on bail in the case on a previous occasion, the defendant since has been arrested for breach of bail, and the court is satisfied that there are substantial grounds for believing that, if released on bail (with or without conditions), the defendant would fail to surrender to custody, would commit an offence, or would interfere with witnesses or otherwise obstruct the course of justice.*

Further exceptions to the general right to bail are set out in section 25 of the Criminal Justice and Public Order Act 1994(39), under which a defendant charged with murder, attempted murder, manslaughter, rape or another sexual offence specified in that section, and who has been previously convicted of such an offence, may be granted bail only if there are exceptional circumstances which justify it.]

(39) 1994 c. 33; section 25 was amended by section 56 of the Crime and Disorder Act 1998 (c. 37), paragraph 160 of Schedule 9 to the Powers of Criminal Courts (Sentencing) Act 2000 (c. 6), paragraph 32 of Schedule 6 to the Sexual Offences Act 2003 (c. 42), paragraph 67 of Schedule 32 and Schedule 37 to the Criminal Justice Act 2003 (c. 44), article 16 of S.I. 2008/1779 and paragraph 3 of Schedule 17, and Schedule 23, to the Coroners and Justice Act 2009 (c. 25). It is further amended by paragraph 33 of Schedule 11 to the Legal Aid, Sentencing and Punishment of Offenders Act 2012 (c. 10), with effect from a date to be appointed.
